Introduction to Tat It And See 2014

Welcome to this year's Tat it and See 2014 game.

To those of you who have played before – welcome back.

To those of you who are new to this game – it's good to see you, welcome to the fun.

The game is a brand new pattern that I give to those taking part in small bite sized pieces every few days. This gives everybody time to complete each part wherever you are in the world and whether you're working, retired or coping with young children!! There will only be a few elements of the pattern to work each time and you can always leave it to do whenever you like. As usual there is no sign up required to take part and I don't keep a record except by numbering the final pictures on the last part.

To make this game more fun I ask you to email me all comments, pictures of work in progress and anything else you can think of during the game. Guesses are always welcome too. This is not 'compulsory' but really adds to the enjoyment for everyone! I will add pictures and comments to the Tat It And See blog which is here. Any private comments will be kept out of the blog but please let me know if there is something you don't want published!!! Anonymity is respected if that is what you want. In that case then please just send me your 'made up' name with each picture and comment you send in. You are also welcome to send in links to blogs if you wish people to visit your TIAS there but you'll have to let me know when you've posted so I can add the link to the TIAS blog!

If you are going on holiday and wish to keep up with the game then please contact me in advance for the links but please don't share!!!!

Anybody who can manage the basics of ring, chain, split rings and the self closing mock ring should be able to complete this pattern. Here is another link which may be useful too - joining the second side of a split ring.

I will be available to give help at all times – except during sleeping hours!!!

Lock joins can be replaced with Catherine Wheel Joins for a neater finish but this is the worker's choice.

There are no beads involved in the TIAS 2014.

For the first part of the TIAS you will need 2 shuttles wound CTM (continuous thread method) with the same colour of thread. I suggest a size 20. A variagated thread or plain would work. You will need 2 yards on Sh1 (shuttle 1) and 1 ½ on Sh2 (shuttle 2). Other thread amounts will be given when needed.

This year's game is divided up into three parts so a plain thread to contrast with the other one would probably be a good idea and will be required much later in the game.

Perhaps somebody else would like to run a Tat It And See? If so please feel free to contact me for help. I cannot run it for you or do updates on the blog but I'll happily advise and give access to the TIAS blog.

Happy TIAS to all!!
